However, on account of unavoidable circumstances, every department couldn't make their way through within the stipulated timeframe. Nonetheless, the drive was a success eventually. The publication of Wall Magazine by the departments explored and ventured into the creative veins of the students' community. With an objective to nurture and promote the students' resourceful imagination and think-tank, the wall magazine provided a platform to redress the students' restless thought, wondering minds and picaresque intentions by molding them into an artistic frame work. The magazine digested and manifested the unheard voices, expressions of the untouched souls, inner inferiority complex, wills to champion life in his/her own motive and the shout of the hard labour put forth by the students to accomplish it. Subsequently, the institute takes pleasure in wandering in and around the frame work day-in and day-out.

Underlying are the publications of Wall Magazine made by respective Departments:
